The Amenities of marriage is always a baby. Without it, wedlock is a summer field that never blooms. A flower that never buds a night without stars, a sermon without a benediction, a prayer without an Amen.

There never was a husband worthy of the name, who did not aspire to be the father and grandfather of healthy, capable children to hand down his name and the fortune accumulated by the sweat of his brow, from generation to generation. There never was a wife fit to bear that noble title, who did not wish to wear womanhood's most glorious crown, the sceptre of motherhood. Thousands of wedded couples, otherwise happy, fall short of wedlock's greatest happiness because they are childless. In the majority of cases, this is because the wife, through ignorance or neglect, suffers from weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. For women who suffer in this way there is one great medicine that does not fail to accomplish its purpose. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned and makes them strong, healthy, vigorous, virile and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones the shattered nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It quickens and vitalizes the distinctly feminine organism. It banishes the maladies of the expectant months and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and almost painless. It insures the little new-comer's health and nourishment in plenty. It is the best supportive tonic for nursing mothers.

Mrs. Jennie Parks, of Marshall, Spokane Co. Wash., writes: "I am glad to tell of the good results of your great medicine—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was benefited by your medicine in confinement. It gave me strength. I have no tired feeling and my baby is the picture of health. I feel better than I have in ten years."

Not Allowed to Read the Bible.
But few people know that in the sixteenth century an Englishman was not allowed to read the Bible, yet it is perfectly true. Henry VIII issued a decree prohibiting the common people from reading the Bible. Officers of state were exempt from this law. Probably the king thought these officials would be none the worse for perusing the sacred work, and noble ladies or gentlemen might read the proscribed volume if they did so in their gardens or orchard, but no one was allowed even to read it to the lower classes.

During the reign of Catholic Queen Mary even more rigorous restrictions were enforced. Dr. Franklin, in his own "Life," preserves an anecdote which admirably illustrates this. His family had early adhered to the reformation, and they possessed an English Bible, which they concealed by fastening it beneath the lid of a close stool. When the doctor's great-grandfather desired to read to the family, he reversed the lid of the stool upon his knees and passed the leaves from one side to the other, each portion being fastened down with pack threads. One of the children was stationed at the door on the watch to see if an officer of the spiritual court came in sight. When such an individual bore in sight, the lid, with the Bible beneath it, was quickly replaced. This was in "Merry England."—Scottish Nights.

The Bet Won the Case.
"In one of the remote counties of the Panhandle of Texas," says Law Notes, "two lawyers were trying a case before a justice of the peace. It was 80 miles as the crow flies to the nearest law book, and the attorneys differed, of course, as to the law upon the main issue in the case. They were trying the case without the intervention of a jury, and his honor, who conducted a gambling house in connection with his hotel, saloon, livery stable, stud horse and jackass, was in doubts as to what his decision ought to be.

"Finally Miller, the plaintiff's counsel, offered to bet Hoover, the defendant's attorney, $10 that he was right. Hoover did not happen to have that much of the circulating medium concealed about his person, and was naturally at a loss how to parry this forcible argument.

"The court waited a few moments on Hoover, and finally said: 'Well, Mr. Hoover, the court has waited long enough. Miller's proposition seems to be a fair one, and, since you don't put up, I will decide this case in favor of the plaintiff.'"

Isolated People of the Earth.
The people who live in the northern portion of the peninsula of Kamchatka are probably the most isolated in the world. The people have practically no communication with others than their own tribe, being seldom visited by travelers.

The inhabitants of the New Siberian Islands are also detached people, for they can only communicate with the mainland once a year even if the weather is favorable. The pygmies of the great central African forests, if they can be called a tribe, have also been a people apart. For ages their existence was little more than legendary, and only two expeditions commanded by white men have ever penetrated into their abode.

Spell This.
Some of you who think you are well up in spelling just to try to spell the words in this little sentence: "It is agreeable to witness the unparalleled ecstasy of two harassed peddlers endeavoring to gauge the symmetry of two peeled pears."

Read it over to your friends and see how many of them can spell every word correctly. The sentence contains many of the real puzzlers of the spelling book.

The trouble with most of us is that we throw musty old crusts on the water and expect frosted cake in return. —Arlinson Globe.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

He Spins a Yarn About a Wonderful Recovery on Shipboard.

A little group had been spinning yarns in the rotunda of the Walton for an hour or more when a bronze visaged, middle aged man joined the party. Several of the group recognized him as the captain of one of the big tramp steamers which ply between Philadelphia and foreign ports, and a place in the circle was at once made for him.

"We've been killing time telling stories," some one explained. "Suppose you turn in your contribution."

The captain thought a moment and then smiled. "I was thinking of something that happened on my last voyage," he finally said. "We had on board as a cook a big colored fellow, whose principal companion was a little yellow cur dog. One day while the cook was preparing some beef for dinner he let the heavy cleaver, with which he was doing the chopping slip from his grasp.

"It fell to the floor with a thud, and the cook emitted a howl of anguish that was heard all over the ship. The cleaver had struck one of his bare feet and sliced the big toe off as neatly as a surgeon could have done it. Here was a chance for the yellow dog, and he seized it. Making a dive for the severed toe, he swallowed it in one gulp and then made a bee line for the deck.

"This was more than the cook, crazed with pain, could stand, and he hurled the cleaver at the dog. His aim proved true, and his curship passed out of existence then and there. At this juncture the ship's doctor came up to find out what all the row was about. When he learned the truth, he laughed. 'I'll fix that for you,' he exclaimed to the cook, 'wait till I get my instrument case.'

"Within five minutes he had held a post mortem on the dog and recovered the lost toe. Washing it with antiseptics, he skillfully stitched it back in place again, and the cook hobbled back to his quarters minus his dog, but with as many toes as he had ever had. That's about the only story I recall just now, gentlemen. It has the merit of being true, however, and if you don't believe it come down to the ship any time and I'll show you the cleaver. The cook has quit the sea, and I don't know his present address."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

HAYDN AND THE LADIES.

Wonderful Susceptibility of the Great Composer.

When Haydn came to England, he succumbed, says the writer of an article on "Music and Matrimony" in the Cornhill Magazine, to the charms of a certain Mrs. Shaw, who figures in his diary as the most beautiful woman he had ever met. As a matter of fact, Haydn was always meeting the "most beautiful" woman.

"The loveliest woman I ever saw" was at one time a Mrs. Hodges, while at another time the widow of a musician named Schroeter so fascinated him that he kept her letters for many years and declared that if it were not for the existence of Anna Maria he would have married her. Certainly Mrs. Schroeter's letters were pleasant enough. "Every moment of your company," she wrote from Buckingham Gate in 1792, "is more and more precious to me now that your departure is so near. I feel for you the fondest and tenderest affection the human heart is capable of. I ever am, with the most inviolable attachment, my dearest and most beloved Haydn, most faithfully and most affectionately yours."

What would the absent Frau Doctor Haydn have said had she known of it? The composer also got mixed up in a little affair with the beautiful Mrs. Billington. Sir Joshua Reynolds was painting her portrait for him and had represented her as St. Cecilia listening to celestial music. "What do you think of the charming Billington's picture?" said the artist to Haydn when the work was finished. "It is indeed a beautiful picture," replied Haydn. "It is just like her, but there is a strange mistake. You have painted her listening to the angels when you ought to have painted the angels listening to her."

If Haydn paid compliments like this all round, we can easily understand how he attained such fame as a London society man.

Not Very Polite.

John Clerk, afterward known as Lord Eldon, was limping down the High street of Edinburgh one day when he heard a young lady remark to her companion, "That is the famous John Clerk, the lame lawyer." He turned round and said, with his "not unwonted coarseness": "You lie, ma'am! I am a lame man, but not a lame lawyer."

Lord Justice Braxfield, too, appears to have fallen in courtesy to the fair sex, for, when told that a brother judge would not sit that day, on account of having just lost his wife, he, who was fitted with a Xantippe, replied: "Has he? That is a rude excuse indeed. I wish we had a' the same."

A Thoughtful Husband.

"You asked me to bring you some pin money this morning," said the young husband.

"Yes," she replied, with an air of expectancy.

"Well," said he, "I thought I might as well save you a trip down town, so I brought you a paper of pins instead."

—Chicago News.

The Quake, the Dead and the Other.

Mrs. Casey and Mrs. Murphy met in a street car and were discussing family affairs.

"And how many children have you, Mrs. Murphy?"

"Four. Two living, two dead and was in Philadelphia."—Sunshine.

THE STUDENTS FOR JACKSON

A Big Demonstration By the Boys Was Nipped in the Bud Last Evening.

When darkness came on last evening one hundred young men with band and banners marched out of the University grounds. Lincoln hall was left without a tenant.

Upon the banners was painted the name of Jackson, the idol of the school.

The intention of this procession was to inform the people where their sympathies lay in the matter of the recent questionable action by the powers that be.

Professor Jackson was informed what was in progress and he headed off the students. He advised them to break ranks and return to the University.

The leaders demurred. Finally three rousing cheers were given for their late professor and the crowd dispersed.

GREAT TALENT HAS
MISS NANCE O'NEIL

Her Matchless Portrayal of the Character of Magda and Her Excellent Support.

Nance O'Neil has come and gone. We would fain have had her remain longer, but our pleas were unavailing.

Messrs. Piper and Kraus offered all sorts of inducements to have her remain and play Monday evening, there being a vacant date on the itinerary of the troupe.

If good shows continue to come as thick and fast as lately and the people continue to patronize them as they have been, the addition to the opera house cannot be built too soon.

Miss O'Neil was received more enthusiastically than could have been believed from a proverbially cold Reno audience. The enthusiasm was well placed. She did not act. She was simply Magda, a real Magda, and the audience were but "peeping Toms" who were stealing a glance at real life.

A diamond set in a brass ring is a diamond still, but when it is clasped by fingers of gold it has enhanced value. It was the latter condition last night.

Miss O'Neil was supported by very clever people, and thus there were harmony and beauty throughout the play.

The Reno Cops.

Said a peace officer to a JOURNAL scribe yesterday: "Reno is as full of hard looking and suspicious characters as I ever saw it, except during fair week."

"Safe cracking and house breaking may begin at any time. The citizens should keep their weather eye open."

This is right in line with the suggestion made by the JOURNAL several days ago that this city stands in need of a regularly organized police department.

There is only one paid patrolman, he receiving the greater portion of his compensation by private subscription. Notwithstanding his ubiquity and vigilance it is impossible for him to guard and patrol any but the business sections of the city.

There are three constables who are paid under the fee system. They receive no remuneration for preventing crimes so they must in self protection devote their time to apprehending criminals.

It would cost just about the same in the long run to put all these men except the chief constable, upon salary, uniform them and put them to patroling.

No Right to Ugliness

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

PHILLIPS TO THURTELL.

RENO, Nev., January 13, 1900.

Professor Henry Thurtell,
Acting President of the University—

My Dear Sir:

I learn from the University bulletin that our honored and esteemed associate, Professor R. D. Jackson, has resigned the professorship of Mining and Metallurgy in the University, which, it is intimated, has been forced from him.

Officially, as a member of the faculty, I know nothing of it. The faculty has not been convened to inaugurate the work of the term. No statement has been made and no opportunity has been given us to express the deep regret we feel on account of his departure.

I regret that I am impelled to say that I cannot meet my students to give them instruction until the faculty receives a statement from the President or the Board of Regents vindicating their recent action taken in regard to Professor Jackson and removing the cloud under which he is leaving us.

I desire you in your official capacity to have my classes taken care of, that my students may not suffer from my action. Respectfully yours,

J. WARNE PHILLIPS.

DR. J. WARNE PHILLIPS

TAKES HIS STAND

One of the Bulwarks of the University Asserts His Independence.

In another column appears a letter by Dr. J. Warne Phillips to Acting President Henry Thurtell of the University of Nevada.

Phillips is a big man with a big heart. He could not permit any individual or gang by deft, smooth, underhanded means, do injury and offer insult to a friend.

His letter was not written because of any insults or affront offered the Doctor by the Board of Regents or President. He has simply struck a blow in favor of the right and in defense of his friend.

It would have been easier to have joined the ring and fallen down at the feet of the Southern Pacific (the word has escaped at last). He could easily have kicked up his heels, waved his arms and wriggled his ears while the Regents pulled the string and the President fiddled.

Dr. Phillips is not a puppet. He is not a fawning sycophant. He has courage and strength sufficient to enable him to stand alone.

There are one or two among the remaining members of the faculty who will follow Dr. Phillips' example within the next forty-eight hours.

There is trouble ahead. Dry bones will shake.

Notice to the Public.

Any one who wears underwear, socks, overshirts, etc., and is contemplating a change, would do well by making a call at A. Nelson's furnishing goods store, Virginia street, where he will find the most complete line of furnishing goods of all kinds in Reno, sold at the lowest living prices.

He carries all sizes of Hamilton Carhart's engineers' overalls and coats, Levi Strauss & Company's overalls, and Tostle, Wheeler & Matter's overshirts and underwear. The above goods speak for themselves.

All the latest patterns of golf and winter caps, and the up-to-date styles in hats always on hand.

He also carries the most complete line of smoking and chewing tobaccos, cigars, cigarettes, smokers' articles, etc., on the coast, which he sells at wholesale and retail.

Free employment office in connection with the store.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

Demurrer Overruled.

In the case of Pedrolini et al vs. Jerry Corrao et al demurrers were overruled by Judge Orler yesterday. The cases were brought to foreclosure a chattel and a real estate mortgage.

REGENT EVANS HAS

SHOULDERED THE BLAME

But He May Not be Allowed to Thus Make of Himself a Scapegoat.

Regent Evans has attempted to "close the incident."

An effort to accomplish this by speaking slightly of Professor Jackson met with ill success, if all accounts be true.

The next attempt was by giving publicity to diplomatic correspondence. That proved more nearly successful. However, the amenities of diplomatic language have been occasionally in times past but the velvet foot of a cat, hidden by which were spiteful, treacherous claws.

Mr. Evans has in a measure shouldered the responsibility for the whole transaction. The students and public, if our information and belief are correct, will not allow it to remain there long.

A SURE CURE FOR CROUP.

Twenty-five Years' Constant Use without a Failure.

The first indication of croup is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mothers. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. For sale by Wm. Pinniger, Druggist.
